

It is natural to have a narrow view regarding the answer to that question. It is for widows and widowers, right? The more appropriate, more accurate view of this workshop is much broader than that. In light of the possibility of misunderstandings the following is offered as food for thought:

A Widowedhood Workshop is . . .

1. REMINDER: It is a reminder of the preciousness of marriage.
2. CHALLENGE: It is a challenge to married couples to treasure (cherish rather than take for granted) what they have before they lose it.
3. COUNSEL: It is counsel to the unmarried (those never married as well as those previously married).
4. UNVEILING: It is an unveiling of God's heart and perspective about widowhood.
5. INSIGHT: It is insight into the thoughts, feelings and struggles of widows and widowers.
6. COMFORT: It is comfort for the widowed.
7. ENCOURAGEMENT: It is encouragement to minister to the widowed & encouragement for the widowed to minister.
8. INSPIRATION: It is inspiration to help deal with the trials of life in a way that glorifies God and is a blessing to others.
